Student Involvement

About Student Involvement

Student Involvement enhances the Mason community by creating dynamic involvement opportunities and fostering student success through co-curricular experiences.

Funding Opportunities

RSOs are able to apply for funding through the Student Funding Board (SFB). These funds allow students to hold events and programs sponsored by their organization. The SFB of George Mason University is an organization composed of representatives from Student Government and various RSOs who allocate funds to provide support. For more information on applying for funds through the SFB, visit si.gmu.edu or contact Student Involvement by phone or email sfb@gmu.edu.

Registered Student Organizations (RSOs) at SciTech:

GAPSA

The Graduate and Professional Student Association (GAPSA) serves as the student government for all graduate and professional students at George Mason University. GAPSA's goal is to unite graduate students and establish a forum through which graduate and professional students are able to address issues, advocate for the greater good, grow professionally, and socialize with one another. For more information on how you can get involved with GAPSA, please visit gapsa.gmu.edu or email gapsa@gmu.edu.

George Squared Student Government

George Squared's Advanced Biomedical Science Program & Student Government mission is to develop medical initiatives, facilitate health-professional-oriented events, and support a warm atmosphere for students who have already obtained undergraduate degrees looking to pursue acceptance into health professional school. Direct guidance is provided from Georgetown Medical School faculty, offering the best and most relevant advice. In doing so, we hope to cultivate an environment that supports pre-health students reaching professional school, while enabling them to be the best version of themselves.

Kinesiology Club

To promote health and wellness in the community, as well as within the university, the field of kinesiology, and to provide additional educational opportunities to the students, the local community, and the university.
