What is Contemporary Student Services?

Contemporary Student Services (CSS) serves as a compass and a bridge. Contemporary students are students who have had more experiences than most college students in their lives before coming to Mason. They might be working professionals, have families, and/or so much more. They may have experienced things a lot of other students haven't, like being in the foster care system or in the military. They are students who don't always see themselves reflected or fully supported in college outreach materials or campus programming.

Contemporary Student Services seeks to provide a centralized resource center and comprehensive offering of academic and social engagement opportunities.
